PREFACE.

Bethel College is pleasantly situated in Russellville, Logan county, Ky., one of the oldest towns in the State. The Louisville & Memphis and the Owensboro & Russellville railroads, which cross here, afford facilities for reaching the College from all points—North, South, East or West.

The enterprise was organized in September, 1849. The Main Hall was erected and Bethel High School was formally opened January 3, 1854. Under the management of Mr. B. T. Blewitt, Principal, the school prospered greatly, and, owing to the evident public demand for collegiate instruction, a new charter was obtained and the institution entered upon its career as a College in the Fall of 1856.

President Blewitt continued in charge of the College, with great success, until the Summer of 1861, when, owing to the civil war, operations were suspended until September, 1863. The College was then re-opened by Rev. George Hunt, as President, who, under many discouragements, reorganized the College and gave it a new impetus.

President Hunt was succeeded in September, 1864, by Prof. J. W. Rust. As a result of his remarkable energy and sound, practical sense, the College grew in numbers and influence until, from impaired health, he was compelled to resign, Feb. 1, 1868. Noah K. Davis, LL. D., was then elected President. The system of instruction and the course of study were enlarged and improved by him, and they mainly prevail in the College at the present time. In 1872 the President's house was built at the cost of $7,000. In 1873 President Davis resigned, to take the Chair of Moral Philosophy in the University of Virginia, and was succeeded by Prof. Leslie Waggener, as Chairman of the Faculty. In 1876-7 the N. Long Hall was erected at a cost of $20,000, "to furnish board to students at reduced rates."

Prof. Waggener was elected President in June, 1877, which position he held with honor to himself and credit to the College until June, 1883, when he resigned to accept the Chair of English Literature and History in the University of Texas.

In June, 1873, Prof. James H. Fuqua, an alumnus of the College, and Professor of Latin and Greek, was made Chairman of the Faculty. During his administration the patronage of the College increased considerably.

Declining to serve longer, he relinquished the Chairmanship June, 1887. Prof. W. S. Ryland was chosen to the vacancy, and in June, 1889, was elected President.

It is the determination of the Trustees and faculty to maintain a high standard of scholarship, as it is their desire to contribute to society men of sound learning and thorough training.

A prominent object in the establishment of Bethel College was to furnish to young men, who are called to preach the gospel, the means to secure an education at the least possible expense. To these it opens wide its doors and cordially invites them to come, and to receive its tuition free.

Bethel College owes its existence to the wise forethought and benevolence of the venerable fathers of Bethel Association, which gave to it her name, watched over its earlier years and still extends to it a fostering hand.

At the close of the exercises the audience were invited to a banquet at N. Long Hall, given by the citizens, in honor of President Blewitt and many of the old students under him, who had been invited to a reunion.

The Graduates' Reception pleasantly ended the day and the session.

PRESIDENT'S RESIDENCE.

ORGANIZATION.

Session.

The Session of Bethel College continues forty weeks, beginning on the first Thursday in September, and closing on Commencement Day, the second Thursday in June. The Fall Term ends Wednesday, January 25, 1894; the Spring Term with the session. The vacation, therefore, occurs in the Summer months. A short intermission is given during the Christmas Holidays.

Matriculation.

To obtain admission to the College, the applicant must be of good character and not less than 14 years of age. He may enter the Academic Classes, however, at the age of 12. He must have a good knowledge of Practical Arithmetic, English Grammar, Geography, Reading and Writing from dictation. He must pay the requisite fee. He must pledge himself to obey the rules of the College, a printed copy of which is given him.

The matriculate is then admitted to the schools he may elect, provided his choice is approved and he enter at least three schools. His course, when adopted, cannot be changed without the consent of the Faculty.

System of Instruction.

The several departments of instruction are arranged in EIGHT schools:

- I. The School of Latin.
- II. The School of Greek.
- III. The School of Mathematics.
- IV. The Norton School of Natural Sciences.
- V. The N. Long School of English.
- VI. The Ewing School of Philosophy.

VII. The School of Modern Languages.

VIII. The School of the Bible.

Each is independent of the others. In each a standard of proficiency is required for graduation. These schools furnish two courses, as follows:

THE SCIENTIFIC COURSE, comprising five Schools, those of English, Natural Sciences, Mathematics, Philosophy, the Bible with Latin, or Greek and French, or German, as elective studies, and requiring four years.

THE CLASSICAL COURSE, comprising seven Schools, the Latin, Greek, Mathematics the last two years in Natural Sciences, English, Philosophy and the Bible; requiring four years.

In addition to these studies, candidates for degrees are required to present theses approved by the Faculty, as showing something of the spirit and method of original research, the subjects to be selected not later than the beginning of the Senior year, and the research to be conducted under the direction of members of the Faculty. These papers are to become the property of the College.

The Academic, as will be readily perceived, is preparatory to the regular Collegiate Course, and is not included in the above estimate. The fact that pupils are often unequally advanced on entering College, makes such an arrangement greatly to the advantage of those who desire the benefit of an elective system of studies. Besides the studies specified in this course, students will be afforded instruction in those branches in which they may be found deficient, if not too elementary. Pupils who enter this department will be expected to have at least such preparation as is afforded by our best public schools.

This arrangement permits a freer classification of studies and of students, and is thus better adapted to the times. All students are placed on a similar footing, influenced by like incentives and subject to the same general regulations. The plan does not involve irregularity, but the student may advance systematically to proficiency in any school, or to graduation in either course. This admits young men, who would otherwise be excluded, to all the advantages of the collegiate system, and to the instruction of skilled professors.

The subjects of instruction, and the extent to which they are pursued, are the same as in the standard curriculum. The form only is modified; the substance is unchanged.

As a large liberty in the election of studies might be abused, the choice of the student is subject to the approval of the Faculty. Definite grades of progress are specified in each school, and the students are strictly classified. The plan adheres to close class-drill in daily recitation from text-books, supplemented by lectures, and to a daily record of the student's proficiency, and to reports based thereon. These reports, together with his intermediate and final examinations, determine his standing.

Lectures on general topics are delivered by members of the Faculty every Thursday morning.

I. School of Latin.

Prof. C. P. Shields.

Latin holds a prominent place in nearly every course of study. It has long been considered one of our best means of training the mind. It is a model for almost every language in the structure of its sentences. It has a literature which contains some of the masterpieces of composition in poetry, oratory and history. It has furnished a large and valuable portion of the English vocabulary, and is needed in the study of our language. Latin is greatly useful in the pursuit of the learned professions, and nearly essential in the study of all the arts and sciences. Perhaps no period has witnessed a more earnest investigation of the principles of the Latin language than the present.

The first year is given mainly to learning the Grammar with easy translations of Latin into English and of English into Latin, with some Syntax. Faithful application the first year, does much to give the learner success in the rest of the course. The following are the text-books:

Text Books.First Academic Year.

First Term—Collar and Daniel's Beginner's Latin Book, including Vocabulary, Inflections and Translations.

Second Term—Collar's Gate to Cæsar and Gildersleeve's Latin Grammar.

Second Academic Year.

First Term—Cæsar, Ovid's Metamorphoses, Mythology (Murray).

Second Term—Sallust, Gildersleeve's Latin Exercises.

Collegiate Junior Year.

First Term—Virgil's Aeneid, with Prosody of Gildersleeve's Latin Grammar.

Second Term—Cicero's Orations, Livy, Roman History.

Collegiate Senior Year.

First Term—Horace, Cicero de Oratore, History of Roman People (Allen).

Second Term—Tacitus (Germania and Agricola), Juvenal, Entick's, White's and other Latin Lexicons in use. Andrew's (Harper's) Latin Lexicon the standard.

II. School of Greek.

Prof. C. P. Shields,

No course of liberal education is complete without Greek. It furnishes one of the best models for the expression of thought with exactness, force and beauty, that man has ever had. Its literature contains the writings of some of the ablest Poets, Orators, Statesmen and Historians of all time. The New Testament Scriptures were first written in Greek, and the Old have been translated into it.

Greek is the source of much of English; from it we get nearly all our technical and scientific terms. By giving it one-fourth of his time the student can finish this School in four years, often in three. The first year is given mainly to Grammar work—the alphabet, accent, declension, conjugation and some Syntax—with easy translations from Greek into English and from English into Greek. The beginning well made, the rest of the course will be easy. The following are the text-books:

Text Books.

First Academic Year.

First Term—Boise's Greek Lessons and Greek Grammar of Hadley-Allen.

Second Term—Boise's Greek Lessons, Hadley-Allen's Greek Grammar, Introduction to the Anabasis.

Second Academic Year.

First Term—Xenophon's Anabasis, Jones' Greek Prose Composition.

Second Term—Xenophon's Memorabilia, Jones' Greek Prose Composition.

Collegiate Junior Year.

First Term—Homer's Iliad, History of Eastern Nations and Greece.

Second Term—Herodotus, Thucydides.

Collegiate Senior Year.

First Term—Plato's Gorgias, Euripides' Alcestris.

Second Term—Demosthenes de Corona, Sedgwick's Prose Composition.

Liddell and Scott's Abridged Greek Lexicon for daily use. Liddell and Scott's Unabridged the Standard. Smith's Classical Dictionary.

III. School of Mathematics.

Prof. James H. Fuqua.

The instruction offered by this department is directed toward two ends: (1) To aid in developing certain powers and habits of sustained, exact, candid and independent reasoning; to aid the imagination to grasp and comprehend as a whole a complex geometric or other concept, or an extended theme of thought; to aid in applying theory to practical problems; and to develop precision and clearness in stating one's thought. (2) To meet the special needs of students preparing for the higher technical and scientific work, and for those intending to be teachers and investigators in Mathematics, Pure and Applied.

The course is divided into five grades, each requiring one year for its completion.

Text Books.

Academic Year.

First Term—Academic Arithmetic (Wells), Academic Algebra (Wells).

Second Term—Academic Arithmetic completed, Academic Algebra completed.

First Collegiate Year.

First Term—Higher Arithmetic (Ray), Higher Algebra (Wells).

Second Term—Higher Arithmetic completed, Higher Algebra completed.

Second Collegiate Year.

First Term—Plane and Solid Geometry (Wells).

Second Term—Spherical Geometry, and Plane and Spherical Trigonometry (Wentworth).

Junior Year.

First Term—Mensuration and Surveying (Carbart).

Second Term—Analytical Geometry (Nichols).

Senior Year.

First Term—Calculus, Differential and Integral (Osborne).

Second Term—Astronomy, Descriptive and Mathematical (Young).

The above course is largely supplemented by the demonstration, proof and solution of more than two thousand original theorems and problems. Frequent and comprehensive reviews are required, that the student may become thoroughly proficient in all the general principles of the science.

IV. School of Natural Sciences.

Prof. William S. Ryland.

In Physiology the attempt will be made to give students the benefit of modern research into the functions of various organs of the human body, rather than of the mere enumeration and description of its parts. Attention will also be given to hygienic and sanitary laws, which are beginning, of late, to have proper recognition, both public and private.

In comparative Zoology, besides the study of animal life, the more recent and approved methods of classification will be presented to the pupil.

The Class in Geology will be favored with specimens, mineral and fossil, in number and variety quite sufficient to set forth the principles of Science.

Chemistry, as well as Physics (Natural Philosophy), will be freely illustrated by experiment. The "New Nomenclature," and later physical features of Chemistry, so rapidly expanding and maturing within a few years, are employed as a means of mental discipline, apart from the novelty of experiment, or the importance of this Science to modern civilization.

Special regard will be had in the study of Physics to the Doctrines of "The Conservation of Energy" and "The Correlation of Forces," as well as to Molar and Molecular Physics. Electricity, which plays so important a part in the life of our people, demands more careful attention than is usually bestowed upon it. Hence, its various phenomena, uses in the arts and units of measurement claim a larger place in the instruction of our youth.

V. School of English.

Prof. John Phelps Fruit.

The purpose in this School is to develop the Art instincts of the student; to find the artist in him, not to make a mere artisan of letters. The imagination is the Art faculty. Every student, therefore, having this image-making power, has creative aptitudes, the development of which should be the high aim of the teacher in his course of study.

Note how much attention is to be given to the works, the products themselves, of the creative imaginations of the Masters of English literature. To interpret fully the work of a master mind is to think after him, to re-create what he has created. This is the procedure whereby the creative instincts are aroused and the creative aptitudes developed.

A thorough acquaintance with Abbott's "How to Tell the Parts of Speech" is the necessary preparation for entrance upon this course of study.

First Collegiate Year

First Term—English Grammar (Meiklejohn); Lessons in English (Lockwood). Required reading: "Vicar of Wakefield;" "Sketch Book;" Selections from "Plutarch's Lives" (Clough's translation).

VIII. The School of the Bible.

Laying aside all questions of a sectarian character, the Old and New Testament Scriptures, as history, as philosophy, and as literature, are too important to be neglected, particularly by the Christian institutions of an enlightened country.

Not long since, after investigation, a writer in the CENTURY made the statement that a large per cent. of the young men, who graduate every year from our Universities and Colleges, are more ignorant of the Bible than the boys and girls of the Mission schools.

In view of these facts the following course of Bible study has been arranged, authorized and made obligatory. One recitation per week is required to complete the course in three years.

Records.

The performance of every task is estimated in the Daily Record of the Professor by a scale of 10. A monthly average of the Daily Record is made, read out at the close of the month in the College Chapel, permanently recorded, and a copy forwarded to parent, or guardian. A general average of these records, at the end of each Term, determines the standing of the student in Scholarship. In this the maximum is 100. A similar record is made of Attendance and Conduct.

Examinations.

Besides the examinations for matriculation, and those occurring daily, the Intermediate and Final Examinations are held, publicly, during one week at the close of each Term. The proficiency exhibited by a student at these examinations is estimated and recorded as equivalent to that of an entire Term. It, therefore, greatly affects his standing in Scholarship. He must pass these examinations and obtain an average of 75 for the entire session, in order to advance, or to obtain a Degree.

College Honors.

The Laws of the College provide that students, having at least three studies, not including the Bible, whose General Average in all Schools is 90 per cent. of the maximum, and whose conduct is 100, shall be designated as "Honor Men," and publicly announced on Commencement Day.

Degrees.

PROFICIENCY—A Certificate of Proficiency is conferred for satisfactory attainment in any specified Branch of Study.

GRADUATE IN A SCHOOL—A Certificate of Graduation in a School is conferred for satisfactory attainment in all its branches.

BACHELOR OF SCIENCE—A Diploma of the College confers the title B. S. on a graduate in the Scientific Course.

BACHELOR OF ARTS—A Diploma of the College confers the title A. B. on a graduate in the Classical Course.

MASTER OF ARTS—A Diploma of the College confers the title A. M. on a graduate of this Institution who has received the title A. B. and who has been pursuing for three years some literary profession.

Medals.

THE TRUSTEES' FIRST MEDAL, twenty dollars in gold, and the TRUSTEES' SECOND MEDAL, ten dollars in gold, are awarded on Commencement Day to the students who obtain the highest and next highest averages in their studies during the ten months.

THE HARRISON MEDAL, value $10.00, instituted by the Harrison Brothers, of Russellville, Ky., is offered to the best student for the year in the School of English.

THE JOHN P. FRUIT MEDAL, value $5.00, is to be given by the Professor of English to the best student of the Junior English class.

THE BRIGGS MEDALS, FIRST, value $15.00, and SECOND, value $10.00, offered by Capt. J. B. Briggs, of Russellville, Ky., are given to the best and next best students in General Gymnastics.

The Trustees have also established the ORATOR'S MEDAL, to be bestowed on the member of the Senior Class who delivers the best oration for a degree.

All Degrees and Honors are conferred on Commencement Day. Candidates will be required to deliver approved orations. The fee for a Diploma is $5.00, and for a Certificate $1.00, which must be deposited with the Treasurer one month before Commencement.

Commencement.

June 7th, 1894, the second Thursday, is Commencement Day. On the previous Sabbath the Annual Sermon is preached before the College. On Monday and Tuesday evenings addresses are made by invited orators before the Society of Alumni and the Literary Societies. Wednesday morning the Senior Orations are delivered. Wednesday evening the Junior Exhibition occurs. On Commencement Day candidates for Degrees present orations, distinctions are announced, the Honors and Degrees of the College are conferred, and the Baccalaureate Address delivered.

Societies.

There are two Literary Societies in the College—the Philomathian and the Neotrophian—which meet on Friday nights in their respective Halls for debate and other literary exercises, and occasionally hold public exhibitions. Each Society has its own Library. The influence of these Societies on the character and literary culture of the student is strong and wholesome.

The "Phi Gamma Delta," "Sigma Nu" and "Sigma Alpha Epsilon" fraternities have each a chapter in the College, and encourage high attainments.

The Alumni have organized an Association, the object of which is to keep alive an affection for their Alma Mater, and to unite the graduates of successive years by ties of Fellowship. Its annual meeting is held on Commencement Day.

The friends of the College may be assured that its discipline will be neither more nor less exacting than the best interests of the student require. The real business of every young man at College is STUDY. Every inferior attraction or engagement must give place to this. One who really intends to devote himself to this purpose can freely avail himself of all its resources. Otherwise we cannot gladly welcome nor honestly keep him. Nor can we relieve ourselves of responsibility for his wanton waste of time and money but by quietly sending him home.

Dismission.

A student is a member of the College from matriculation until formally dismissed, or until his name is stricken from the roll. One is regarded as honorably dismissed who has obtained a Degree, or is entitled to a Certificate of honorable dismission.

Government.

The regulations of the College are few and simple, but comprehensive. Our constant aim will be to inculcate sound scholarship, pure morals and good manners. A student is not permitted to lounge about the town or to indulge in idleness or injurious amusements. No one will be retained in the Institution whose conduct renders him an unsuitable associate, who proves a drag to his class, or who perverts the morals and discipline of the College.

A record is made of absences, violations of College laws, or rules of propriety and morality. This record is included in the estimate of a student's standing.

Nor can we relieve ourselves of responsibility for his wanton waste of time and money but by quietly sending him home.

Morals.

THERE ARE NO SALOONS NOR POOL ROOMS IN RUSSELLVILLE.

The sale of intoxicating liquors in the town, or county, is for-bidden by law. Prohibition is fully sustained by the moral sense and intelligence of our people. As a refined and cultivated community, offering social and religious advantages of a high order and unusual freedom from the perils of dissipation and vice, Russellville presents to parents who are anxious to shield the morals of their boys, attractions unsurpassed by any educational center in the State.

Religion.

Besides the Baptist there are five Protestant churches in Russellville. All students are required to attend public worship at least once every Sabbath, unless excused by the President. Besides the privileges of Sabbath worship, a daily prayer-meeting, held by the students, affords a healthful exercise of the Christian zeal and piety of our young men. It is earnestly advised that, for the maintenance of their spiritual life while in College, young men having membership in churches at home bring their letters with them, and join or else place themselves under the "watch-care" of their respective communions in Russellville. The value of denominational colleges in promoting higher education is so generally recognized that it need not be insisted on here. But it should be equally understood that no sectarian influences are to be employed, that each student attends the church of his choice, and that entire freedom from all bias of religious opinions is the right of every one. No student attending Bethel College has ever had cause to complain, hitherto, in this respect, and, it may be confidently affirmed, none ever will.

N. LONG HALL.

BOARDING DEPARTMENT.

N. Long Hall.

This commodious building, which accommodates about one hundred boarders, embraces conveniences, such as bath-rooms, infirmary, elevator and contains a Gymnasium. Fuel (coal and kindling) is stored convenient to the students. The rooms are heated by open grates and readily ventilated. The student supplies himself with towels, a lamp, and whatever toilet articles he may require. Other articles of furniture, as a table, chairs, bureau, book shelf, bed, bedding, including one comfort and one blanket, are furnished by the Hall. For the safe keeping and return of these, as well as the proper care of his room, each student is held accountable. Only two students occupy a room.

A thoroughly competent Superintendent, Mr. R. W. Davis, has charge of the Hall. The building has, during four years, been taxed to its full capacity. Young gentlemen find there all the requirements of a student's home—comfort, quiet, good company and courteous treatment.

Expenses.

THE PRICE OF BOARD in the N. Long Boarding Hall, including fuel, lights and attendance, is $2.50 per week, payable in advance every four weeks. This rate is only guaranteed to those who board in the Hall. Hence all who would secure rooms should make early application. No deduction is made for lost time, except in case of sickness protracted one month; and application for such deduction must be made before the close of the session.

Board may be had in good families in the town for $2.50 to $4.00 per week.

Washing costs 75 cents to $1.00 per month.

THE TUITION FEE is $27.50 per term, and must be paid to the Treasurer of the College at the beginning of each term. No one is considered a student until he has paid his Tuition or Matriculation fee. Those entering after the opening of a term will be charged from the beginning of the month in which they enter. No part of this fee will be refunded to a student dismissed, or withdrawn, and no student will be entitled to an honorable dismissal until he has paid all his dues.

Licentiates of Baptist churches and sons of active ministers receive tuition free. They will, however, pay, on entrance, an incidental fee of $2.50 per term. Those who receive aid from the "Beneficiary Fund" will do well to bring money enough to pay board for the first three months in each term.

Text-books can be obtained in Russellville at publisher's prices, and cost from $5.00 to $10.00 per session.

SUMMARY OF COLLEGE EXPENSES.

Board per Term of Twenty Weeks	$50 00
Tuition per Term	27 50
Total	$77 50

Expenses of licentiates and sons of active ministers are for the same time, $52.50. See page 36 for further reduction. Comparison with rates of institutions of same grade with Bethel College is invited. It is believed that few, if any, can offer, on the same terms, superior advantages.

Free Tuition.

Free tuition for one session is given to ten pupils of the Public Schools of Logan county, on the following conditions:

1. The pupil must be qualified to enter the Academic classes.
2. He must have been a pupil of the Public School within a year.
3. He must have from his teacher a certificate of good scholarship and deportment, endorsed by the County Superintendent.
4. He must pay a matriculation fee of $2.50 before his enrollment.

Only one pupil will be admitted from each school. Besides these, ten pupils will be admitted, on the same terms, from other counties in the State, but only two from any county.

Economy.

A too liberal allowance of pocket money is a real disadvantage to a young man at College. It is destructive to habits of industry and economy, and therefore to be strongly discouraged. The Faculty not only enter their protest against extravagance, but would especially urge their pupils, as a measure of safety, to deposit in bank whatever funds they may bring with them. Students under age are positively prohibited from making accounts in the town, without authority from their parents or guardians; and merchants are advised that such accounts cannot be collected by law.

MISCELLANY.

The Ewing Professorship of Mental Science.

In the year 1858, Judge E. M. Ewing, of Russellville, gave to Bethel College valuable real estate near Chicago. The sale of a portion of this has recently added the sum of $44,000 to the endowment of the College. The remainder is held at a greatly increased value. To this he afterward added a liberal cash donation. His son, H. Q. Ewing, Esq., for many years President of the Board of Trustees, made, in 1857, a valuable bequest of real estate and $10,000 in funds. In remembrance of this enlightened munificence of father and son, the Chair of Mental-Science is entitled as above.

The N. Long Professorship of English.

During the year 1870, Mr. Nimrod Long, of Russellville, who from the origin of the Institution had been actively devoted to its interests, and with liberal hand sustained it in every hour of need, in addition to past gifts and services, endowed the Chair of English. To commemorate his beneficent act, and to perpetuate his name in our annals, it is given to this Chair.

The Norton Professorship of Natural Science.

Also, during the same year, Messrs. George W. Norton and

Wm. F. Norton, of Louisville, with Mr. Exstein Norton, of New York City, conjointly endowed the Chair of Natural Sciences. In acknowledgement of the obligation of the College, this Chair is named in honor of the liberal donors.

Beneficiaries.

By the will of Mr. James Enlow, late of Christian county, Bethel College, was made his residuary legatee. The amount realized, about $8,000, is entitled

THE ENLOW FUND.

According to the terms of the bequest the interest from this fund is applied to aid indigent young men who study for the ministry in Bethel College. By the will of the late Mr. William Price, of Logan county, valuable property, of which the amount is estimated to be about six thousand dollars, is left to the Trustees of Bethel College, who are to use the income to aid in the education of young Baptist ministers. These funds are supplemented by annual contributions from Bethel Association. This assistance is rendered by paying, in the form of a loan, $40, or less, per annum on the cost of board in the N. Long Hall to each young minister, a licentiate of a Baptist church, whose resources are so limited that he cannot obtain an education without it. The expenses of a licentiate may be thus reduced from $52.50 to $32.50 per term. In order to secure the benefit of this fund the applicant must bring proper testimonials, and he must sign the following note:

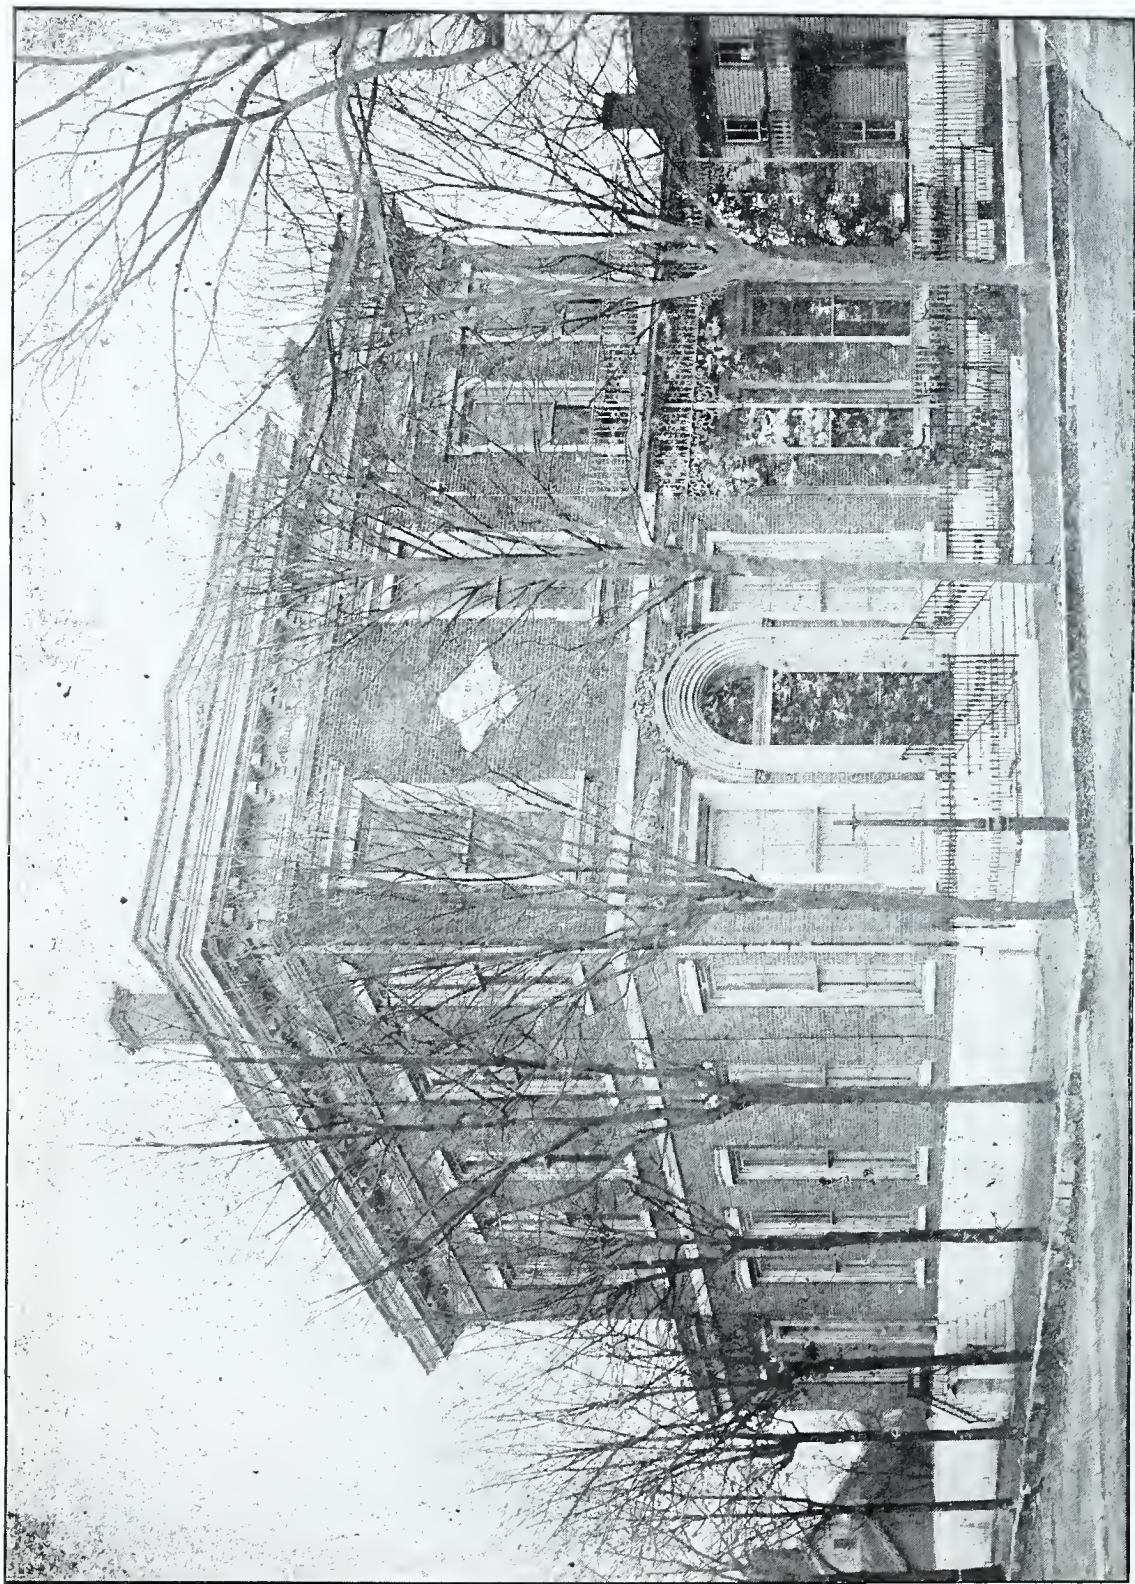

BETHEL COLLEGE.

RUSSELLVILLE, KY. 189..

For and in consideration of money received from the "Beneficiary Fund" of Bethel College I hereby promise to pay to the Treasurer of said Fund, as soon as I am able, dollars, without interest, if paid within five years, otherwise with interest, the money thus refunded to be used in educating other students for the ministry on the same conditions. Witness my hand and seal this day and date above written. [Seal].

 Those desiring aid should apply beforehand.

LONG-NORTON LIBRARY.

Apparatus.

The College has Mathematical, Philosophical and Chemical Apparatus, Geological and Mineralogical Specimens, Scientific and Historical Charts and a series of Biblical and Classical Maps.

Library.

The Library of the College contains many valuable works. A considerable part of it formerly belonged to the Hon. Presley Ewing, and at his death was transferred to the College as a gift. Besides frequent accessions from other sources, chiefly Governmental Departments, Federal and State, it has recently had an addition of valuable books to the amount of five hundred dollars, the gift of Mrs. Olive C. Walton, of Allensville, Ky.

A pleasing incident at the close of the Commencement Exercises in 1892 was the announcement by Rev. Dr. W. H. Whittitt that the heirs of the late N. Long and G. W. Norton had offered to the Board of Trustees the property formerly known as the "Southern Bank of Kentucky," to be used as a Library and for kindred purposes. The gift was conditioned on the raising of five thousand dollars for the purchase of books. This condition having been met the building has become the property of the College, and the Library will be duly equipped and supplied with useful books for study and reference.

Donations.

The Library building is valued at twelve thousand dollars. Miss Mary J. Newton, of Daviess county, Ky., lately deceased, left by her will one thousand dollars to be invested for the benefit of the Library. These sums, with the subscription for the Library, make a total of seventeen thousand dollars received by the College during the year.

A handsome organ for the College Chapel, the gift of Capt. J. B. Briggs, is but another of many proofs of his interest in the institution.

Two fine oil portraits of the brothers, W. F. and G. W. Norton, by Benoni Irwin, also an excellent crayon portrait of Rev. W. W. Gardner, D. D., so long Professor of Theology in the College, have been added to the valuable collection of portraits in the Chapel.

Briggs Gymnasium.

The Trustees built, in connection with N. Long Hall, and by the liberality of Capt. J. B. Briggs, have partly furnished a large and commodious Gymnasium, exclusively for the benefit of the students. By paying a small fee the student can have the benefit of regular and systematic exercise.

Health.

Russellville is a remarkably healthful place. The death rate is said, on good authority, to be less than half that of our large cities. There has not been a serious case of illness from local causes among the students for many years.

Improvements.

The Trustees have recently expended on the College buildings, in additions and improvements, over six thousand dollars. A handsome tower and clock, striking the hours and half-hours, a new roof, a coat of paint on the outside and a thorough renovation of the basement and upper stories, together with other changes, add much to the attractiveness and convenience of the building. The N. Long Hall also was painted, put in thorough repair, and, to a considerable extent, refurnished.

Shall I Send my Boy to College?

The advantages offered by a well-endowed college are not generally understood or appreciated. Most young men who need, or desire, the best possible education, can ill afford to be governed by a false economy in so important a matter. Nor can their parents, especially if there are several sons. No man in charge of an ordinary neighborhood school, even though it may be called a college, can successfully teach a variety of grades, and, if he could, it must be to the neglect of his elementary pupils for the benefit of a select few. As these advance in their studies, they require more of his time and attention. One or the other class of pupils, therefore, must be sacrificed, and he can do nothing satisfactory to himself, or his patrons. In a college, however, with an ample corps of teachers, each has his special work, for which he is best adapted, and can be reasonably expected to do that one thing well. Is it not good economy to send boys to college? Can you afford not to do so? A Diploma from a well endowed and equipped institution of learning is usually a guaranty of thorough training and of liberal culture, is a recommendation for any calling and a passport to the best society. Is not that the cheapest which is the best?

BETHEL TRAINING SCHOOL, Guthrie, Kentucky.

This thriving young Institution, the result of the liberality and enterprise of citizens of Guthrie and vicinity, is admirably situated at the crossing of the Henderson and Memphis Branches of the L. and N. R. R. An elegant and commodious building has been erected on a campus of twenty acres, and the school, which is under the care and control of Bethel College, and whose Faculty direct its course of study, has already been in successful operation eight months. Its object is to prepare young men and women for College and for practical and business life. Encouraged by its success, its friends look forward with confidence to a still more prosperous session, next year, under the skilful leadership of its Principal, aided by a carefully selected corps of Assistants.

A WELL EQUIPPED COLLEGE FOR YOUNG LADIES,

founded and maintained for the development of Christian womanhood of the highest type, with well arranged courses of study in all departments, leading to the usual Degree. An especially thorough course of study in English Language and Literature.

FULL COURSES IN

Latin, Greek, German, French, Mathematics, Science and Philosophy.

A Carefully Graded Music Course

prepares pupils to enter the Junior Year of the NEW ENGLAND CONSERVATORY, BOSTON, and the Music Department is under charge of an experienced graduate of that well known Conservatory.

ART and ELOCUTION

taught by accomplished teachers.

The College building has just been enlarged, improved and refurnished at a cost of nearly $10,000.

The Faculty embraces ten thoroughly trained, efficient and successful teachers.

The Courses of Study are symmetrical and complete; the methods of instruction progressive and thorough; the building and grounds spacious and handsome; and the furnishing and equipment elegant and homelike.

Those who seek for their daughters while in school the influences of a safe and cultivated Christian home are invited to send for the catalogue.
